I became interested in satellite radio over a two years ago. I was looking for and needed an alternative to commercial radio. I travel, and I also needed to have consistency in the programming I enjoyed from state to state. Satellite radio provided what I wanted. The price was right. I now own four receivers and my family members enjoy the same freedom of choice as I do. I urge the FCC not to take my freedom of choice in the type of programming I enjoy. In fact with over 120 channels to choose from, I have found my choices expanding. By allowing the NAB to limit what I, as a paying consumer, can choose by introducing NAB's proposal 04-160, is un-American and their proposal should be rejected unconditionally.
